

NES Is Unlike Any Other Biotechnology

I have been taking Big Field Aligner, and the effects came on subtly, but they are amazing! My creativity is unbelievable (I'm an artist); I am focused and organized (something I have never been able to be despite a shelf full of books on getting organized); and I am sleeping better and have fewer mood swings.

—Los Angeles, California

In the two years of my various NES treatments, I have transformed from a listless 52-year-old who barely had enough energy to get out of bed to a 54-year-old who has just finished his second grueling nine-day bicycle marathon. My wife and friends ask me where I get my energy. I just tell them about Nutri-Energetics and quantum biology.

—North Queensland, Australia

When I was recently in hospital with pneumonia and was really on my last legs, my NES practitioner was right on target with the infoceuticals—my lungs cleared up and I did not need to go back to hospital as the doctor had predicted. Also, I had an existing eye problem for 10 to 12 years that was a mystery to the ophthalmologists. NES got to the root of the problem, and I found the infoceuticals of great benefit. My hearing also improved quite dramatically.

A New Paradigm in Healthcare

The Nutri-Energetics System (NES-Professional) is the most advanced biotechnology for the analysis and repair of the human body-field. It represents a revolutionary leap forward in restoring and maintaining optimal health and well-being.

With NES, you simply place your hand on an input device that looks like a computer mouse and in seconds the assessment is complete.

Your NES practitioner will be able to:

- Accurately identify problems in your body-field.
- Monitor your progress over time, so that you can track improvements and discover deeper issues that need to be addressed.
- Identify when your body is ready to deal with specific imbalances effectively and efficiently.
- Determine the infoceticals needed to correct physical and emotional imbalances, enhance healing, and restore vitality.

NES and the Body-Field

Everyone has an energy field that surrounds and infuses the physical body. This "human body-field" directs information to the cells, DNA, organs, and other systems of your body, so that they communicate correctly and function properly. When there is a distortion in your body-field, there is a corresponding effect in your physical body.

A closer look at the Human Body-Field:

- The body-field is the master control system for the physical body.
- The body-field is dynamic: It is always changing and records everything that happens to you and everything to which you are exposed.
- If messages from the body-field to the body become distorted, then physiological functions begin to deteriorate.
- By correcting imbalances in the body-field, the physical body is restored to well-being.

NES Identifies Problems and Solutions

The NES-Professional system is a pioneering application of physics to biology that has redefined alternative healthcare. The NES analyzes the human body-field, which is the master control system for the physical body.

The NES-Professional is different from all other biotechnologies:

- NES is the only system available today that contains a map of the optimal human body-field.
- NES is the only system that encodes the correct sequence in which the body needs to be restored to well-being.
- NES is the only system that identifies what the body is ready to deal with, allowing the body's own self-healing wisdom to help direct the healing process.
- NES helps your body return to its fullest possible expression of health and vitality.
- NES provides instant assessment results, so you immediately know which aspects of the body-field require attention.
- NES is safe, non-invasive, and easy to use.
